

Life Science Intelligence at NCBiotech

Life Science Intelligence (LSI) connects bioscience entrepreneurs and companies with the analysis and resources needed to inform strategic decisions. We can give your company an advantage with targeted market and scientific insight.

Custom Research

Improve your competitive position with custom market landscape analyses tailored to address your specific questions. Our research analysts are experts in the business of life science, and can produce timely, confidential reports, visualizations, alerts and data on topics including:

- Epidemiology and market size
- Competition, product development and clinical trials
- Investor, partner, asset and expertise identification
- Benchmarking for financial and licensing deals
- Trends in the life science industry and labor market in North Carolina and beyond
- Patent, literature and funding searches

Incorporating data from industry tools like PitchBook, IQVIA Pharma Deals, GlobalData, Adis Insight and more, we can deliver strategic insight to your business, no matter your sector or stage of growth. Contact us to set up a free consultation or to see sample work.

Bring LSI expertise in-house

With our experts as an extension of your team, you can expand your market and scientific research capabilities. We can work alongside your R&D and business development staff to provide ongoing on- or off-site business research and information management services - so you can focus on innovation and growth.

Contract plans are tailored to your needs. Contact us to learn more at research@ncbiotech.org
